Timotheus Seeks To Avoid Standing, Squatting at Games

SITTING PRETTY: I went out yesterday and bought a new piece of furniture because I have weak knees and cannot stand to hear the noise of the crowd.

Does that make sense?

Yep.

The piece of furniture is a regular camping chair—a canvas seat that just folds up. You know—you've sat on them.

I get weak knees when I cover football games. Getting up and down, up and down, squatting and standing, squatting and standing. And every year it gets worse. Can't figure why!

And when the game is on and you don't squat, you should hear the voice of the maddening crowd come up like thunder cross the bay and shout "SIT DOWN IN FRONT!"

If you've never been out in front of a crowd and have never heard the roar in unison of "SIT DOWN IN FRONT!" brother, you haven't lived. I have lived.

This year I have given up to critical voices and weak knees. Tomorrow night I'm going to try an experiment—and hope it works.

With me as I run the sideline will be the folding camp chair. I hope to carry it up and down the line in the crook of my arm, and when it comes time to pause, will I squat? I should say not! I'll have my little partner right there to dignified "be seated."

JAMES BEGGS, automobile investigator in the office of Secretary of State Charles Carpenter, was in a couple of days ago leaving the new 1956 application forms for motorists, and he left a sample of what the new license plate will look like. This year the background is of light powder gray with ivy green numbers. Above the numbers is "Land of Lincoln," and below them "19 Illinois 56."

The numbers on the sample, in case you're interested, are 000 060. And the plates are made of aluminum, which tends for smaller mailing costs because of the lightness.

Something else new is that all plates are the same size—six by 12 inches.

If you have No. 1, which you haven't, or No. 2 198 981, which you possibly could have, the width of the plate will be the same.

IT DIDN'T HAPPEN HERE: An old railroad engineer had just pulled his locomotive up to the water tank. The young fireman mounted the tank and brought down the spout. His foot got tangled and he stepped right into the water.

"Son," said the engineer, "just fill it with water. You don't have to stomp it down."

AND men who mind their own business are bound to succeed because they have such little competition.

Police Seize Slayer of Newspaper Foreman

Gunman, 31, Admits Killing; Raped Woman

Loaded Pistol Taken from Slayer After His Capture

CHICAGO (AP)—Police today captured Michael Morabito, 31, slayer of a Chicago Daily News mail room foreman, and said he admitted the slaying and a rape which took place while officers sought him throughout the city.

Four shots were fired at Morabito as patrolmen and detectives of the homicide squad ran him down on the city's Northwest Side. He did not fire, although a loaded pistol and 40 cartridges were taken from him after capture.

Guards were withdrawn from newspaper offices where they had been posted since a short time after Morabito, a former employee of the News who had undergone psychiatric care, walked into the mail room Wednesday and shot Henry George, 45, the foreman.

Lt. James McMahon of the homicide squad took a statement from the gunman at detective headquarters. Police said Morabito admitted the slaying and the rape. He said he had spent the night sleeping at a construction site in the 5600 block of Sheridan Road.

Asked why he shot George, Morabito said "I had a lot on my mind." He had quarreled with mail room workers at the News and at other newspapers in the city.

He first was sighted today by detective Peter Rendik, who had been working all night with Sgt. Howard Pierson in the search and was on his way home.

Rendik fired three shots at Morabito after tense moments in which he faced the fugitive, who had a gun pointed at him.

Rendik was getting gasoline for his automobile at a station at Augusta and Crawford when he sighted Morabito.

Morabito, a former mail room employee for nine years, fired two shots into George, a veteran of 16 years with the Daily News, then stood over the sprawled body and fired three more shots point-blank, witnesses said.

They said Morabito received mental treatment three years ago. Police said Morabito took a 20-year-old woman to a Lake Michigan beach Wednesday night and raped her.

The woman, who was unidentified, said Morabito accosted her Wednesday night as she was about to enter her apartment building on the North Side after returning from her job as a radio station receptionist.

She told police he showed her a picture of himself in the Daily News and said, "I'm that fellow. The police are looking for me."

Then, she said, he forced her to a nearby hotel, where the clerk said there were no more rooms left. At that, the gunman walked her to the beach, raped her and then asked her for money.

When she said she had none, he replied: "I don't need much. I haven't got long to live."

Public Aid Rolls Decrease

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—Public assistance rolls decreased during July to their lowest level since October, 1954, Garrett W. Keaster, executive secretary of the Illinois Public Aid Commission, announced today.

Keaster said the case loads for five assistance programs declined 2,592 persons and $109,053 since June. There were 274,772 persons on the assistance rolls in July and they received a total of $12,515,750 in benefits.

Keaster attributed the drop to nationwide high employment and predicted the decline would continue.

Case loads and expenditures for the general assistance, old age assistance and blind assistance programs showed declines during July. These more than offset slight increases in the disability assistance and aid to dependent children programs.

Keaster also announced federal surplus foods were distributed to 49,922 public assistance recipients in 14 southern Illinois counties during August.

The commodities, valued at $125,193 were distributed in Christian, Franklin, Hardin, Jefferson, Macoupin, Massac, Montgomery, Perry, Pope, Pulaski, Randolph, St. Clair, Saline and Williamson counties.

Construction in Harrisburg Area Suffers from Cement Shortage

Harrisburg, along with other communities throughout southern Illinois is feeling the effects of the cement shortage, interviews with Harrisburg engineers and concrete producers revealed today.

Robert R. Brown, civil engineer, stated that the street building program in Harrisburg has been held up for weeks due to the cement shortage and James Hall of the Tison-Hall Concrete Products plant stated they still had a supply of cement on hand, but were not servicing new accounts, but holding their stocks for regular users in the immediate area of Harrisburg.

Paving work on O'Garra street has been held up for several weeks because of the cement shortage, Brown stated Wednesday. However, a 1,000-bag shipment of cement arrived Monday and work on the curb and gutter on O'Garra has been in progress this week, but there is no cement for the base of the street.

To accommodate the crowds that will be at Taylor Field Friday night for the opening high school football game of the season the barricades will be removed on O'Garra from Land street west to the curb and gutter on O'Garra throughout the day and open to traffic Friday evening.

Brown stated that 3,300 bags of cement would be needed to pour the base of the street and he hoped this work could be accomplished

Two Hurricanes Aim for Central America, Possibly U. S.

MIAMI (AP)—Two hurricanes—one in the Atlantic and the other in the Caribbean Sea—aimed for the shores of Central America and possibly the United States today.

Hurricane Hilda, now a 100-mile-an-hour howler, plowed through the Caribbean in the direction of British Honduras and was about 340 miles south-southwest of Havana, Cuba, at the time of a noon weather advisory.

Hilda's sister, Ione, continued a path through the Atlantic on a north-northwest course that appeared to put the South Atlantic Coast of the U. S. mainland at ease. Ione's winds maintained a steady 70 to 80 miles an hour but a slight increase in intensity was expected.

At noon Ione was some 330 miles north-northeast of San Juan, P. R. and its course was to the northwest or north-northwest.

A 6 a. m. advisory estimated the vast whirler was centered about 250 miles northeast of San Juan, and said it was traveling on a course between northwest and north-northwest at about 10 miles per hour.

The advisory warned that Ione, flinging gales 150 miles outward from its center to the northeast and 40 miles to the southwest, probably would gradually increase in size and intensity.

Two Deaths in Cuba

Hurricane Hilda, the year's eighth tropical tempest, also gained renewed force after its deadly trek across Cuba and swirled across the Gulf of Mexico far west of Ione toward northern British Honduras on the Yucatan Peninsula.

A 6 a. m. Miami Weather Bureau advisory said Hilda, packing winds of 75 miles per hour, was centered about 300 miles south-southwest of Havana, Cuba.

Hilda raked Cuba Wednesday causing two deaths, numerous injuries, and heavy damage. Early today the small town of Caimanera, the jumpoff point for the U. S. Naval Base at Guantanamo, was still isolated and badly battered. A trainload of medical personnel and supplies was dispatched from Guantanamo.

At Baracoa Leonidas Mercado and his infant daughter were killed when their home collapsed in the high winds.

Morse Claims Benson Admits Farm Failure

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Wayne Morse said today that Agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson has made "a belated confession that the administration farm program is a bust."

The Oregon Democrat made the comment on Benson's promise Wednesday to recommend something "very specific" to Congress to prop up falling farm prices. Benson did not indicate what he would propose.

Morse's dig at Benson came as Democrats showed signs of making the drop in farm income a major 1956 campaign issue and Republicans admitted it was one of their most vulnerable points.

Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill.) charged that Republicans were "trying to rewrite history" to beg votes next year by "denying" President Eisenhower in 1952 pledged to support farm prices at 90 or 100 per cent of parity. GOP National Chairman Leonard W. Hall said Douglas was talking "bunk."

In another development, Chairman Harold E. Cooley (D-NC) of the House Agriculture committee warned at East Lansing, Mich., that falling farm prices in the midst of prosperity elsewhere present an "exact parallel" to the situation in the late 1920's which led to the depression.

Benson acknowledged that he is not satisfied with present farm prices, but he stuck by the administration's flexible price support program. He said it did not cause the present farm crisis.

Although he did not disclose the proposals he will submit to Congress in an effort to end the farm price-cost squeeze, Benson did say his department is studying a plan for government payments to farmers for taking land out of production.

Hubbard Saved From Death Penalty by Jury

Defendant Hears Sentence by Briggie Without Emotion

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—Federal Judge Charles G. Briggie today sentenced Clifford Eugene Hubbard, 27, Collinsville, to 150 years in prison for murder and kidnaping in trying to rob the Kampsville Bank.

Hubbard was found guilty Wednesday, but the jury voted against the death penalty.

"The jury has been very lenient with you," Briggie told Hubbard who heard the sentence with no show of emotion. The defendant was in a wheel chair as a result of injuries suffered in trying to escape after the robbery attempt.

"Much more sympathy has been extended to you by the jury than you extended to Mr. and Mrs. Waldheuser," Briggie said.

"I am not surprised there have been no motions for a new trial," he said. "You are probably afraid it would be allowed."

Briggie said his "heart goes out" to Hubbard's four children. "The greatest service you can render them in the years to come is to refrain from letting them know they have had such a despicable father," Briggie said.

"You and your bandit companion alone were responsible for the killing of Harry Waldheuser and the maiming of Mrs. Waldheuser," Briggie said.

Hubbard will be 77 years old before he is eligible for parole.

Hubbard and Thomas Underwood, 26, Washington Park, last May 1 walked into the home of Kampsville bank cashier and Mrs. Harry W. Waldheuser. Holding guns on the aged couple, they ordered Waldheuser to go open the bank safe.

Home Surrounded
Waldheuser said he couldn't, the safe was kept closed until the next morning by a time lock. The bandits decided to stay the night.

But a neighbor woman discovered the bandits in the house. A score of armed men soon surrounded the home.

The desperate bandits demanded an escape car and took the Waldheusers as hostages. They drove out of the little Illinois River town amid a hail of bullets fired by the gathered residents. About two miles north of Kampsville, driving at more than 100 miles an hour, Hubbard, twice hit by posse shots, rammed into a culvert abutment.

Waldheuser, 63, and Mrs. Waldheuser were seriously injured.

The prosecution said Hubbard was guilty of Waldheuser's death regardless of whether the bank cashier died from the auto crash or two bullets which struck him from posse guns.

U. S. Dist. Atty. John B. Stoddard Jr. said Hubbard's guilt was established "the minute Hubbard walked into the Waldheuser home with a gun in his hand."

But Defense Atty. Joseph Londrigan said Hubbard, who admitted trying to rob the bank, would pay for that crime. "But that is no reason for his being found guilty by inference of another crime."

There is no reason he should pay with his life for murder committed by a mob," Londrigan said. Londrigan objected to some instructions given to the jury by Briggie.

The judge told the jury, "the citizens of Kampsville are not on trial here," and that the citizens had the right to make arrests without warrants when someone was committing a felony as Hubbard was doing.

Briggie said the government did not have to prove "malice aforethought" and sympathy should have no place in their deliberations.

Off-Campus Rooms Slightly Higher For SIU Students

CARBONDALE, Ill. — Single students at Southern Illinois university will pay slightly higher rent for off-campus housing this year, but the quality of the rooms and furniture shows improvement.

That's the observation of Mrs. Mabel Pulliam, supervisor of off-campus housing at SIU.

Weekly rentals per student on a two-student-per-room basis are running from $3.50 to $5 in Carbondale. Mrs. Pulliam said, with the average about $4.

Mrs. Pulliam pointed out that a great many townspeople would like to rent have remodeled them and bought new furniture. The demand for single beds had been so heavy that local furniture stores are having a difficult time keeping them in stock.

The darkest spot in the university housing picture is the shortage of rental houses for married faculty members with children. Charlton F. Rasche, supervisor and head resident of family housing on the campus, said the situation is tighter than ever before, with a waiting list of 200 families.

"Of course most of these have found housing elsewhere in the area, but they want to move to the campus when the opportunity arises," he explained.

The U. S. population went on growing since Aug. 1. The Census Bureau's "population clock" in the Commerce Department building lobby showed that at 8:40 a. m. CST today the population was 165,495,000. The clock calculates births and deaths each minute. It is subject to official change.

In Memoriam
In loving memory of our daughter and sister, Mary Wasson Tretter who passed away two years ago today.
It seems sometimes we hear her saying,
"Do not grieve, so Dad and Mom, I am not dead, I'm only resting Till the resurrection comes."
And, it's then our hearts are lifted.
For it's then we surely know,
That we can go and meet her.
When we too, are called to go.
Sadly missed by father and mother, brothers and sisters. 67-1

Former Christopher Grid Player is Co-Captain of Miami's Hurricanes

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Two coaches with Illinois backgrounds have made their Midwest connections pay off in a parade of football talent for Miami's power-packed Hurricanes.

Coach Andy Gustafson's proudest theft from Big Ten territory is his pint-sized quarterback, little Mario Bonifiglio of Kenosha, Wis. Bonifiglio was a third stringer at Wisconsin, where they thought the 164-pounder was too small.

So "Bonny" packed his bags and hitehiked South, where he could play the sport he loves most.

"That was our lucky day," chortles Gustafson, a native of Aurora, Ill.

Around the plucky and tough Bonifiglio and fullback Don Bossele of Batavia, N. Y., Gus built a new attack that bowled over eight foes last year and landed Miami in the top 10 ratings.

The diminutive play master receives his teaching from Backfield Coach Perry Moss, who quarterbacked Illinois to the Big Ten and Rose Bowl championships after World War II.

Moss, a student of the game with a master's degree, heaped Gustafson work out the intricacies of Miami's new "drive" offense.

Four other Wisconsin products, all juniors, and four from Illinois will cap a lot of action for the Hurricanes this fall.

August nankab White Rouviere of Buckner, Ill., is co-captain and Miami's hope for 1955 All-America honors. A fierce competitor in all departments, Rouviere led the nation in stolen passes last season with seven interceptions. He played high school ball at Christopher, Ill.

Three Illinois youths bulwark Miami's veteran lines, with Bob Noian of Wauconda, a pass-snag-

Navy Denies It Will Abandon Arctic Cargo Ships

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Navy said today there is "no idea of abandoning" any of the Arctic cargo ships fighting Polar ice packs above Alaska.

"No emergency exists," a Navy spokesman said.

The ships, from the Military Sea Transportation Service, are part of a 123-vessel fleet carrying 500,000 tons of supplies and equipment to the new Arctic radar station line and other outposts. The Navy describes the operation as the greatest assault ever made on the Arctic.

Reports from Point Barrow, Alaska, earlier today said some of the ships might have to be abandoned. But the Navy denied this.

Calufetti to Start 11 Senior Bull Dogs Against Murphysboro

Opening Game of Season Friday Night At Taylor Field

Bull Dog Coach Lawrence Calufetti will start eleven senior lettermen against the Murphysboro Red Devils at Taylor Field in the opening game of the season Friday night.

Calufetti has 12 lettermen on the squad and all but Mike Hays, No. 2 quarterback, are expected to start the contest, which will begin at 7:30 p. m.

The opening lineup will consist of the following, in all probability: Ends — Jim Williams, 6-3 and 162 pounds, and Joe Morris, 6-2 and 144 pounds.

Tackles — Ken Price, 6-3 and 190 pounds, and Everett Evans, 6 feet and 217 pounds.

Guards — Richard Hess, 5-10 and 190 pounds, and Jay Waite, 6 feet and 168 pounds.

Center — Don Williams, 6-1 and 176 pounds.

Quarterback — Wayman Hefner, 6 feet and 190 pounds.

Halfbacks — Jack Wright, 6-1 and 170 pounds, and Fred McKenzie, 5-10 and 144 pounds.

Fullback — Tony Beal, 6-1 and 206 pounds.

Others To See Action
Other boys, many of whom probably will see action, are Mike Hays, quarterback; Jack Foster, Floyd Shewmaker, Phillip Morse, Trevor Whiteside, Jim Cummings, and Charles Sullivan, halfbacks; John Ziegler, fullback; Bill Henshaw, Bennie Fulkerson, Marvin Harlow and Melvin Hicks, ends; Dickie Druce, Danny James, Ronnie Reynolds, Jim Molinarolo and Richard Cantrell, tackles; Lyndell Stacey, Lou Williams and Bruce Bishop, guards; and Ronnie Vick and Harold Guard, centers.

The starting line and backfield each average 176 pounds, Coach Calufetti pointed out.

The Harrisburg-Murphysboro games each year are among the best of the season and this year's apparently will not be an exception.

Murphysboro, for years coached by Eddie Benici, has a new mentor this year replacing the veteran Benici who now is an assistant coach at Southern Illinois university.

Taylor Field Brightened Up
New head man is Bill Furgerson, who has switched to the Murphy offense from the single-wing, the type used by Harrisburg, to the T. Furgerson, who has a record of 24 wins, four losses and one tie as a high school grid coach in Kentucky, went to Murphysboro from Murray State college, where he was an assistant.

Regarding the T. Furgerson said this week to a reporter that "the changeover has not caused as much trouble as I had expected," adding that "the new system is definitely better suited to a small team such as we will have this year."

The squad has 11 lettermen, with a line average of 165 pounds and the backfield an average of 155, Furgerson stated.

"Our basic formation," he added, "will be the split-T with the quarterback having the option of running, passing or lateraling off. Our primary offensive attack will be on the ground but we will throw when necessary."

Taylor Field is being brightened up for the game. All the fence posts around the field, the gates and the stadium railings have been painted aluminum. The stadium seats have been painted gray. The goal posts have been painted yellow.

A street running alongside the field has been oiled.

Yankees Climb Within Game Of First Place

Pennant Race Takes On New Look In American League

By United Press
All of a sudden it's a brand new American league pennant race—from the standpoint of the Yankees, anyway.

To hear the jubilant Yankees whoop and holler today someone might get the idea they had just clinched the flag, but what they actually did was climb to within one game of the pace-setting Indians and draw even with them in the all-important "lost column."

The man chiefly responsible for the "new look" in the pennant race and the new lease on life for the "Bombers" is a skinny, little-bearded Washington rookie, whose only previous claim to fame was that he owned the longest name in the league.

His name is Jose Valdivielso and it was his eighth-inning double that brought the seventh-place Senators a 3-2 victory over Cleveland Wednesday night. Washington's triumph, coupled with a 6-4 victory by the Yankees over the Tigers, sliced a full game off the Indians' league lead and put an entirely new complexion on the pennant race.

The figures all boil down to the fact that the Yankees now are in a position to finish in a pennant tie should they win all their remaining 10 games—which Casey Stengel feels they can do—and the Indians win all their remaining eight contests.

One-Game Playoff Possible
If that's the way it winds up, a one-game playoff to decide the American league winner will be held at Cleveland on the basis of an earlier coin-toss.

The only consolation the Indians received out of Wednesday night's setback at the hands of the Senators, who took the season's series, 13 games to nine, was their rookie fireballer Herb Score. He struck out nine batters during the 6-1-3 innings he pitched, making a total of 235 batters he has fanned this year. That total tops the previous best mark for a rookie set in 1911 when Grover Cleveland Alexander struck out 227 as a fledgling with the Phillies.

The White Sox, whose pennant chances grow dimmer every day, split a doubleheader with the Orioles, dropping the opener, 8-2 and winning the nightcap, 6-0. The split left Chicago four games off the pace.

Zernial Homers Twice
Big Gus Zernial drove in six runs with his 27th and 28th homers to lead Kansas City to a 7-3 victory over the Red Sox, who recovered seven games back. Art Ditmar registered his 11th victory with an eight-hitter.

While everybody is watching the tightening American league race, hardly anyone is noticing that the Dodgers are taking their daily

Eagles to Open Home Play Against Anna

The Eldorado football Eagles open the 1955 season Friday night before home folks, meeting the traditional opening game rival — Anna-Jonesboro.

Eldorado fans are looking forward to a winning team this season as there are 11 lettermen back from last year's team that compiled a fine 6 won, 3 lost record.

However, Eldorado will be facing a big, rugged, experienced team in Anna and Eagle fans have a chance in a hurry to get a line on their team.

Anna can field a team averaging 185 pounds in the backfield and a line that will average about 175 pounds. This would make Anna one of the biggest teams in southern Illinois this season.

The backfield will probably consist of Gary Meyer, 185-pound center, at quarterback; John Sneed, 195-pounder, fullback, and halfbacks John Chamness, 185; Bill Lewis, 155 or Bob Eaves, 175. If Eaves plays the backfield will average 185, but will be a little lighter with Lewis in action.

The starting line, according to reports, will be: Brooks, 161, center; High, 165, and Spurlock, 170, guards; Baker, 180, and Williams, 195, tackles; White, 165, and Hileman, 175, ends.

Adams in Ninth Year
The Eldorado team will not match Anna in weight, but then, Adams-coached teams are usually outweighted.

Adams, starting his ninth year as head coach, according to reports, has an unusually good man to handle the ball from "T" formation.

Clark, who amazed fans and players alike last year with his slick ball handling, will be handing off to Acie Gwaltney and Bob Potts, who operated with Clark in the backfield last year. The fourth member of the backfield will be 214-pound Lindell Lovellette, converted lineman now a fullback.

The offensive line, Adams has announced, will have Laffoon at center, Mitchell and Mosby at guards, Putnam and McClary at tackles and Stroke and Chandler at ends.

Cheerleaders Elected
When Eldorado is on defense, Adams expects to use Lovellette and Stroke at ends; McClary and Putnam at tackles; "B" team — Corbin at guards; Laffoon at center; Chandler and Mosby line-backers; Fequay and Potts at safety.

The Eldorado offensive team will average about 161 pounds and the defensive team 10 pounds more.

Eldorado cheerleaders, elected Tuesday, are — Varsity: Judy Butler, Mary Jo Davis, Janet Draper, Sue Hill, Sue Holbrook and Beth Minner. "B" team — Jane Barnett, Rae Hill, Lynda Irvy and Glenda Stone.

All Eldorado home games will be played under the lights, kickoff time 7:30.

The complete schedule:
Sept. 16 — Anna-Jonesboro
Sept. 23 — McLeansboro
Sept. 30 — Harrisburg
Oct. 7 — Benton
Oct. 14 — Carmi
Oct. 21 — West Frankfort
Oct. 28 — Cairo
Nov. 4 — Marion
Nov. 11 — Fairfield

Stonefort Graders Defeat Creal Springs, 14-10, in Softball Tilt

Stonefort pounded out a 14-10 victory over Creal Springs in a grade school softball game played at Stonefort Wednesday afternoon.

Charles Smith pitched for Stonefort and Don Atherton was the losers' hurler.

Craig of Stonefort slammed out a grand slam home run for his team's big blow of the contest.

The already settled National league race.

The new N. L. champions suffered their fourth straight loss when the seventh-place Cardinals beat Carl Erskine, 3-0, Wednesday night. Tom Poholsky held the Dodgers to three hits in posting his ninth win.

Del Crandall and George Crowe each connected for two-run homers as veteran Warren Spahn of the Braves defeated the Giants, 9-2. Willie Mays slammed his 44th and 45th homers of the season, typing Ted Kluszewski for the major league leadership.

No other games were scheduled in the National league.

DeMarco Wins First Round TKO Over Chico Vejar

BOSTON (AP)—Manager Steve Ellis cried today that the famous Brinks robbery was nothing compared to the way his boy, Chico Vejar, lost to welterweight Tony DeMarco.

"It was the fastest I ever saw a fight stopped in my life," said Ellis, after DeMarco had won a first-round TKO victory over Vejar in Wednesday night's nationally televised scheduled 10-round at Boston Gardens.

"That referee (Tommy Rawson) shouldn't have been so quick in calling it quits with only 10 seconds left," Ellis said. "Vejar has been known to start off that way and still come back strong."

"As a matter of fact Vejar looked better after the second knockdown than he did after the first."

Ellis was referring to the unexpected battering from the former welterweight champion. The 23-year-old DeMarco rained an assortment of blows on the head and body of the underdog, who was staggering with a mouth full of blood.

Yankees Buy Gerry Staley
NEW YORK (AP)—Knuckleball pitcher Gerry Staley was scheduled to report to the New York Yankees today and Manager Casey Stengel planned to use him as added bullpen strength for the final pennant battles. Staley, 35-year-old right-hander with a 5-8 record this season, was purchased by the Yankees Wednesday from the Cincinnati Redlegs of the National League for the $10,000 waiver price.

Here's the Dirt: Wreck Near Eldorado

THIS IS THE SCENE FOLLOWING A COLLISION on Route 45 at Motel Eldorado Monday afternoon. Damaged mostly was the dump truck in the foreground and an auto driven by Joe Ladley, employee of the Southeastern Illinois Electric co-operative. There were no injuries. State police reported that an Ellis truck, seeing the auto turning, slowed, but when the driver saw a dump truck coming up behind him, pulled over to the right. The dump truck, owned by Gus Brown and driven by Frank Pingleton, both of Eldorado, went around the Ellis truck, clipping off the rear view mirror and crashed into the Ladley auto, which had been approaching from the south. Except for the Ellis mirror, damage was confined to the dump truck and Ladley's car, both damaged considerably. (H. Bramlet Photo)

COLLECTING CUPS AND SAUCERS is a hobby with Mrs. James Johns and she now has more than one hundred sets collected in the past three years. Mrs. Johns is shown with approximately 35 sets on a whatnot above the desk in the living room and many others are on a corner whatnot and on tables in the room. Five foreign countries and 29 states are represented in the collection. (Register Staff Photo)

Mrs. James Johns, Collector of Cup and Saucer Sets, Seeks One from Each State

Mrs. James (Grace) Johns, 1055 East Raymond street, Harrisburg, started collecting cup and saucer sets about three years ago and now she has more than one hundred beautifully designed and colored cup and saucer sets.

"It all started on my birthday in 1952," Mrs. Johns stated in discussing the collection.

"I was working at the Midwest Drive-In and a little surprise party was given me on my birthday. Geraldine Ewell, daughter of the manager, gave me a cup and saucer and I liked it so much that I decided to start a collection. I never had a hobby before and this seemed like something I would enjoy," Mrs. Johns said recently.

Once the word got out that Mrs. Johns was collecting cup and saucer sets, they began to arrive from friends and neighbors and relatives. "I have received some from people I don't even know, but were from friends of friends of mine, and wanted to add to my collection. Everyone has been just wonderful and I love each set," she declared.

As the different sets were pointed out, Mrs. Johns knew who had given it to her and where it was from, without checking. However, each is marked and once or twice she checked herself but never had to make a correction.

In the collection are sets from five foreign lands, with one from Germany being her pride and joy. It is a set sent by her son, Robert B. Johns, serving with the Air Force in Europe.

There are sets from Okinawa, Canada, South America and Old Mexico.

Cities represented are Washington, D. C., with the national Capitol building featured; Springfield, Ill., with the state capitol and Lincoln sharing honors; Louisville, Ky., with a race horse in a field of blue grass painted on both the cup and the saucer, and San Francisco.

West Frankfort to Observe Founder's Days Sept. 22-24

WEST FRANKFORT, Ill. — The selection and coronation of a Miss Southern Illinois, with candidates from a dozen cities competing, will climax a three-day Founder's Days celebration at West Frankfort Sept. 22-24 in observance of the 141st anniversary of the erection of the log stockade from which West Frankfort took its name.

Mayors of the sponsoring towns will be honored during a Queen's parade prior to the judging contest and editors of seven southern Illinois newspapers will serve as judges.

Miss Southern Illinois will be crowned by Congressman Kenneth J. Gray in a public ceremony in the high school auditorium on the night of Sept. 24. The judging will also be public. The winner will receive a scroll attesting her rights to "rule and reign" over Little Egypt.

Winner of the Queen contest will also receive a "royal chest" of valuable gifts. City and Chamber of Commerce officials and their local school bands have been invited to escort the entries in the Queen's parade Saturday afternoon.

West Frankfort's entry in the Miss Southern contest will be selected in a ballot contest during the week prior to the celebration. The Founder's Days celebration will open with the presentation of candidates in the local balloting contest at the Johnston City-West Frankfort football game on the night of Sept. 22.

A variety show and coronation of Miss West Frankfort, as the city's candidate for the Miss Southern Illinois title, will be staged in the high school auditorium "for free" on the night of Sept. 23.

Two parades are scheduled for Sept. 24, a pet parade at 10 a. m. and the Queen's parade at 2 p. m.

The Miss Southern Illinois judging contest and coronation will be held in the high school auditorium at 8 p. m.

Founder's Days is being celebrated in observance of "almost 150 years of growth and progress" since the erection, by Francis Jordan in 1809, of the block house (Frank's Fort) from which West Frankfort eventually took its name.

Frank's Fort was one of many stockades erected by early settlers in the Illinois territory as protection for their frontier families from rampaging Indians.

Editors who will serve as judges in the selection of Miss Southern Illinois are: Edwin Rackaway, Mt. Vernon Register-News; Curtis Small, Harrisburg Daily Register; William Dougherty, Carbondale, Southern Illinoisian; Jim Choiser, Benton Evening News; Homer Butler, Marion Daily Republican; Lucius Smith, Du Quoin Call; Robert W. Reward Offered 50 Years Ago is Claimed

SPOKANE, Wash. — Robert B. Linn, 7, Sumas, Wash., is $1 richer because of a reward offered 41 years before he was born.

Robert found a ring of rusty keys near his home and decided to cash in on the reward offered on a tag attached to the ring.

The reward was offered by the Fidelity National Bank of Spokane. Although the institution had since changed its name and nobody remembered much about the tags, the bank, now the First National, sent Robert his $1 and is holding the keys for R. A. Langley, Colton, Wash., who received the tag in 1907.

Hearings on Communism

Editorial By Bruce Bloss
The sort of hearings conducted recently by the House un-American Activities Committee into communist infiltration into the entertainment world inevitably must produce some puzzled reactions.

Only one of the 23 witnesses called in New York acknowledged affiliation, saying he was formerly a member of the Communist party and naming eight others
as having such links.

The others either invoked the Fifth Amendment or generally bucked committee questioning without falling back on constitutional support for their resistance.

Constitutional protection is intended to be real, not fictional.
Nevertheless, when individuals publicly decline to answer questions put by a duly constituted congressional committee, they must understand that some suspicion is sure to attach to their performance.

Their reasons for refusal to answer these queries candidly may be important to them. But by now they certainly must realize that their reputations suffer as much or more by that action as they would if they frankly admitted party membership.

So much for that side of the matter. The other aspect is the more baffling.

The House committee's purpose
evidently is to elicit public confession of Red affiliation at some time or other in the individual's life. But the tactic is a risky one for American liberty unless the whole business is put in some kind of intelligent perspective.

What are these people being asked to confess? At the most extreme, apparently, it is membership in the Communist party.

Under U. S. law, such membership is not and never has been a crime, though most of us may regard it as a grave mistake and a definite disservice by a man to his country.

In the expert opinion of our courts and specialists on communism, this movement is a worldwide conspiracy. Hard-core members inevitably are spies for the Soviet and possibly Chinese Red regimes, bent on achieving the overthrow of our government.

If a man can be proved a participant in this conspiracy, then he can be prosecuted under the Smith
Act, but not otherwise.

It is important to differentiate between such hard-core membership and other grades of membership less closely involved with the basic conspiracy, with theoretical interest in communism, and with interest or membership which existed in an earlier period when the party and its operations were different—or at least not so well understood.

These distinctions are not felt
as the House committee operates today. Until they are made, clearly, the work of this group conceivably could do harm as well as good to the freedom we all seek to preserve.

French Might Learn North
African Lesson From What U.

HAVANA. — This is a city of old Spanish fortresses but with dungeons as deep as Cuban politics;
of electric signs against the skyline touting Canada Dry and Cadillacs; of palatial penthouses and outdoor cafes with little tables on the sidewalks where orchestras
have given way to television;
where the opera house features a child-welfare center; and where the growing sea dashes over the wall of the Malacaen as the political opposition grows at any president in power.

It's a city where an American embassy of modernistic glass juts out like a champagne bottle against the earthy jug of ancient Havana; where one of the most modern newspapers in the world,
El Mundo, features aspirin tablets pasted onto its pages and perfumed ink in its soap advertisements.

It's a city where you can see Johnny Meyers, Senate-headlined public-relations man for Howard Hughes, get kissed on the barren beach by a Tropicana chorus girl
and see Bob Jackson, onetime FDR New Hampshire national committeeman, dancing with a blonde among the gaming tables.
It's a city where Ernest Hemingway challenges Ted Scott of the Havana Post to a duel because Mrs. Hemingway didn't like Scott's negative appetite for lion steaks.

It's a city of limousines and pushcarts, of klaxons and peddler's bells; a city that is renowned for sin, yet whose sin pales beside the juvenile jungles of Harlem;
a city where sugar is king; where,
when sugar falls or America cuts
the quota, unemployment, unrest
and the threat of communism stalk
the streets of Havana; but when sugar is up, gaiety runs riot
through the stately palms, the fantastic trimmed laurel hedges, the hibiscus that line the streets of Havana.

It's a city where radio-commentator-political-leader Eddie Chibas shoots himself in front of the microphone in protest against the graft of the previous administration; it's a city both modern and medieval, whose main passion is politics—all ruled by an ex-Army sergeant who once threw out Cuba's most hated dictator and is now accused by his enemies of being a dictator himself.

That is Havana.
MOROCCO VS. CUBA
I came down here partly to get away from the incessant drum-beat of American politics. I got into the more romantic bongo drum-beat of Cuban politics. I came down also to make some comparisons between what the French are doing in Morocco with what we did in Cuba.

Whereas the French have hung onto wealthy, turbulent North Africa until it's affire under their own feet, we hauled down the Stars and Stripes in wealthy, turbulent Cuba in 1902, three years after the Spanish war. And we watched the Lone Star of the Cuban republic go up in its place. Later, in 1933, we scrapped the Platt amendment which gave us the right to intervene for the purpose of keeping peace and order in the neighborhood, sometimes bloody, lone-star republic.

Were we wise? Should the French long ago have followed our example — not only in North Africa but in Indo-China? Should the Dutch have followed our lead in Indonesia? Should the British follow our lead in Hong Kong?
Were we wise in granting independence to the Philippines? Would the whole communistic scourge in the Far East have been avoided if the French, British and Dutch long ago had done for their colonies
what we did with Cuba and the Philippines?

Most Americans would say yes.
A TURBULENT NEIGHBOR
Some, however, point out that after Cuba's "butcher" President Machado was thrown out of office
with the blessings of the Roosevelt administration, Cuba had nine different presidents in quick succession. They point out that graft has been rampant; that the recent Prio administration announced it was burning several million pesos to be replaced by new currency but that these bills later turned up in the pockets of certain Prio personalities.

They also point out that one minister of education, the late Jose Manuel Aleman, under President Grau, carted so many suitcases of cash off to Florida that he owned the Miami Sports Palace and plus several hotels and even had the nerve when asked by U. S.
Customs what was in his baggage to tell them the truth — "cash."

Finally they point out that the sergeant who kicked out Machado is now back in the presidential palace without benefit of elections.
Almost every step you take in Havana you bump into a politician or a would-be politician. Each of them can tell you—as in the U. S.
A.—what's wrong with the country
—which, after all, is one prerogative of self-government. And about half of them will tell you Fulgencia Batista, the ex-Army sergeant,
is a dictator; the other half swear
by him as a savior.

To find out the nature of this remarkable man who has governed Cuba directly or indirectly for more than a decade I went to see him.

The palace in which he lives I had once visited in the middle of the Machado administration. It was then lined with machine guns.
Searchlights glared down from the ramparts at night.

This time a couple of guards
lounged round a Coca-Cola vending machine inside a rear door.
Not even an armed sentry paced outside.

Tall Persons Have Their Problems

BATTLE CREEK, Mich. —
—Tall persons have one big strike against them.

Miss Mathilde Messner, director of physical therapy at the Battle Creek Sanitarium, said the tall person has greater difficulty with posture and relaxation than the man or woman of average height.
"Consider the tall executive leaning over a desk too low for him," Miss Messner said. "In no time at all he will develop a humped back, the muscles in his neck and shoulders will form into tight knots and the pain in the small of his back will reduce his efficiency."

While there is no remedy for being tall, she advised that swivel chairs always should be adjusted for comfort. She counseled against crossing the legs while seated, gripping the sides of the chair with the hands and sitting with the head jutting forward.

"Poor body mechanics is responsible for much bursters, neu-ritis and other ills arising from faulty circulation," Miss Messner asserted.

1,302 Illinois Traffic Deaths This Year

SPRINGFIELD — Illinois
traffic fatalities for the first eight months of the year totaled 1,302 deaths, an increase of 7 over the highway deaths for the same period in 1954.

The traffic fatality report of the State Division of Highways showed 189 deaths in August, most for any month this year.

Accidents in the eight month period were up 11 per cent with 140,000 forecast for the year at the present rate, a jump of 20,000 over 1954.

Shame and eyes which poorly concealed a sense of humor that frequently confounds his cabinet.

"My minister to the president is getting old," he told me, with a kidding glance at the minister.
"We used to work here until 3 or 4 in the morning. But I let him get off at midnight and even so he's sleepy."

Batista himself had worked until 4 a. m. and was up again at about 9.

For a couple of hours I questioned President Batista about the problems of a country which is our third nearest and most important neighbor, and I'll report further on the visit tomorrow.

AROUND SPRINGFIELD

By DON E. CHAMBERLAIN

Evidence Indicates Mrs. Earle Searcy Will Be On GOP Ticket

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (Special to The Register)—Selection of a woman to run on the Illinois Republican state ticket appears likely. Evidence is mounting to support the belief that Mrs. Earle Benjamin Searcy, widow of the former clerk of the State Supreme Court and named to fill the vacancy created by his death is being slated to run for the full 6 year term for that office next year.

Gov. William G. Stratton says
he will be happy to see a woman on the state ticket, explaining that
"a little bird told me awhile ago
that women voters are in the majority." Asked if Mrs. Searcy would be "on the team" (meaning state officers expected to seek re-nomination) he said there had been no conference on the matter but that he knew she was considering running.

Stratton amplified his hopes that there would be a woman candidate on the state GOP ticket by pointing out that women are successful in government service, and referred to Miss Vera Binks, Kewanee, named by Stratton as director of the State Department of Registration and Education, the first woman member of an Illinois governor's cabinet.

Preceding his remarks on the possibility of Mrs. Searcy being a candidate for the court clerkship,
Stratton announced he had chosen
Mrs. Margaret Hayes, Chicago,
widow of the late Edward A.
Hayes, former national commander of the American Legion to serve on the Illinois Youth Commission replacing Harvey Long, Elmhurst.
Mrs. Hayes will serve until January, 1957, at an annual salary of $8,000.

Stratton philosophized on his appointment of Mrs. Hayes saying
"it is good to get the woman's view on things." He said "a woman's touch might make the board more effective." Mrs. Hayes was with the Board of the Chicago Boys Club, was a member of the Girls' Scout Board at Decatur, and was co-chairman of senior hostesses for the Washington Stage Door Canteen during the war.

State Superintendent Vernon L.
Nickell, Champaign, says 7,000 yellow and black school buses, traveling nearly 52 million miles each year.
Figuring 185 days to a school year
this would amount to an average of 40 miles a day for each bus.
The buses, he said, are tested twice a year at one of the 180 approved state testing stations to insure as far as possible, safety of the children.

First day for filing for primary nomination for district and state offices is January 16, 1956, with the last day on January 23. The withdrawal deadline will be January 28. Party representative nominating committees have through January 31 to declare whether they will seek one, two or three seats
and must file such declarations
with Secretary of State Charles F.
Carpentier, East Moline, by Feb.
2.

The new law creating the State Division of Industrial Planning and Development for the purpose of promoting Illinois for its industrial and recreational advantages, authorizes Gov. William G. Stratton to name 15 members for terms of office which ultimately will be for five years each, but actually start out with staggered terms.

For some reason the new law omits giving Stratton authority to fix the terms for initial appointments except that five will be for five years, five for four years and one for three years. As a result the entire 15 will have to draw lots to decide the length of each one's term. Stratton already has named Fred Falkenstein, Belvidere, to the $8,000-a-year superin-

tendency of the division.

The legislature appropriated $100,000 for the division and members will serve without pay but be reimbursed for expenses. The law which was authored by Rep.
Richard Stengel, D., Rock Island,
provides the division shall plan for industrial expansion by use of educational and advertising methods and encourage tourists to visit Illinois.

Who Rides With Wyatt

by Will Henry

Illustrated by MEA, Copyright 1954, 1955 by Will Henry. Used by arrangement with Reader's Digest.

XXIII
Joe Ruiz, an old Mex sheepherder, long known around the mining camps down the San Pedro, had come up to get some water from its well. The four banditos had built a coffee fire. When the old herder got up close enough to make out who was siding that fire, he just faded for his flock. When he saw Wyatt and his little posse milling around the holdup site next morning, he slipped over, pointed out the old adobe, and read off its last night's guest list: Bill Leonard, Jim Crane, Harry Head and Luther King. All short-caliber Clanton men.

After five days of trailing they nailed Luther King coming out of an abandoned line camp on the old Redfield spread. After his gentle way with such kind, Wyatt got the boy to talking. He named Ringo as head of the bunch but said he didn't know the two that were with Ringo on the stage end of the job.

The Cochise sheriff demanded they turn King over to him and Wyatt, seeing he had his top deputy, Billy Breakenridge, along, decided to risk doing it.

Him and his own little bunch, Virg, Morg and Marsh Williams, a Fargo special agent from Benson, rode on south after Head, Crane and Leonard.

They squandered another week at it, gave it up, and rode back into Tombstone.

They had a nice jolt waiting for them.

Their wind of it didn't come by way of The Nugget's printed report, but if it had they could have read it this way:

Luther King, the man arrested at the Redfield's ranch, charged with being implicated in the Bud Philpot murder, escaped from the sheriff's office by quickly stepping out the back door while a bill of sale for the disposal of his horse was being drawn up by Deputy Sheriff Wood. He had been absent for a few minutes before he was missed. A confederate on the outside had a horse in readiness for him.

There's been a whole deck of lies dealt out about Doc, good as well as bad. But one thing nobody's ever argued. He could hold his own in any poker game. He'd throw you four pat queens, with an ace kicker; then call you down to your last blue and draw out on you with three cards to the middle of a six-high straight flush.

Remarking on this talent, along about here, isn't steering as far around the well to get water as it might sound. An hour after Doc and Wyatt had checked back into their rooms at the Cosmopolitan, Marsh Williams was pounding on the latter's door.

"Located him for you," he nodded, tense-like. "Been on a high lonesome ever since the stick-up. Told him you wanted to see him. He only laughed that loco way of his. Said, if you wanted to see him, you could come a'looking. He'd be right where I left him."

"Where was that?"
"The Oriental. He's on a streak. Been a big game running since early yesterday. He ain't been out of his chair the past eight hours. They tell me he's better than $3000 up and still winning."

"Doc!" There was a rare excitement in it.
"The thin gunman loafed in through the connecting door that opened off Wyatt's room into his. 'What's the ante?' asked Doc Holliday."

"Ringo's in a big game over at the Oriental. He's riding a high streak, and drunk."

"Well," grinned Doc, the pull of his gray lips under the sockets of his dead-fish eyes putting you in mind of a skull that had just thought of something funny, "you never can tell about the luck of a lousy calf. Fill me in, pardner."

"I've played with the kid and watched him play with others. They busted the mold for bad losers after they'd poured Johnny Ringo," snapped Wyatt.

"So!" said Doc.

Ringo cursed as only a man that's slobbered drunk can.

It was the seventh pot he'd dropped since Holliday had bought into the game an hour and 20 minutes before.

And the last three of those pots he'd lost with two full-aces-over-10s and queens-over-jacks and a king-high straight, dealt pat.

The gall-bitter part of it was that every last one of those seven losing hands had come on Holliday's turn to deal. And every one of them had been lost to a high flush or double brace of natural fours, shucked to himself by that lousy skull-faced shadow of Wyatt Earp's.

Doc's "phenomenal" luck had been too much for the other players. The last two of them folded as the deal now came to the ex-Dodge City dentist for the eighth go-round. With only Ringo left, and him with no more than a couple of hundred in scrambled red and blues still on the table in front of him, Doc, said quietly.

"Want to call it a night, boy? You still got enough to buy your stagefare back to Texas."

"You deal 'em off the top and slow!"

Doc shrugged, deliberate in the way he ignored words that had led to dead men in many another case.

"You got to learn to lose, youngster. Any tinhorn can win and grin. How'll you have it, now, plain or fancy?"

Ringo was drunk, and mad drunk. The rage and the whiskey were so thick in him his voice had to fight to break through the crust of them. He shoved his stack to the middle of the table, pushed his chair back free and clear of it.

"Straight poker!" he choked.

"Face up and one at a time!"

"Showdown it is," nodded Doc easily, and slid him the deck for the cut.
